ALONG THE RIVER FRONT

POLICE BOAT TO BE READY FOR SERVICE AUGUST 1.

Capacity of the Boat for Speed Greatly Increased—Fish Market Quotations.

The harbor police boat Vigilant will be ready for service again about the 1st of August, after having been laid up for three months while new machinery was being built for her. The new engine for the Vigilant, which was built at Boston, arrived at Alexandria Monday, and Wm. A. Morris' Sons, the contractors for the machinery, now have the boat at that place placing the engine and pumps in her. This, and making the necessary steam connections, will take about two weeks, when the boat will be brought back here to be fitted up.

Since being laid up the coal bunkers of the Vigilant have been rebuilt and enlarged to nearly three times their former capacity. This was made necessary by the greater coal consumption of the new boiler, which has about three times the steaming capacity of the old one. The new engine is a four-and-a-half-ton type, with cylinders seven and thirteen inches in diameter with ten-inch stroke, and is a fine piece of machinery. It is expected that the power it will develop will make the harbor boat one of the fastest tugs of her size in the harbor.

Until she is ready for service Harbormaster E. H. Jones will have the launch No. 1 in commission about the harbor. As the steamer Estelle Randall, running the mail route from this city and Georgetown, was on her way up again yesterday evening one of the sheaves in her steering gear broke and caused the steering ropes to part. The hand-steering gear on her steering deck was consequently rigged up, and, steered by a tiller, she came to her wharf here. The broken block was replaced by a new one yesterday evening, and she will resume her regular schedule time this morning.

The supply of fish on hand at the 11th street wharf is small this morning, and the demand, in consequence of the weather, continues light. Prices remain low, white perch selling today at 5c. to 10c. per pound, brook trout, 12c. to 15c. per pound; pan rock, 4c. to 8c. per pound; sea bream, 8c. to 10c. per pound; spot, 3c. to 4c. per pound; flounder, 15c. to 2c. per pound; Spanish mackerel, 5c. to 6c. per pound; blue fish, 2c. per pound; gray trout, $1 to $2 per barrel; croaker, $1 per barrel; butter, 12c. to 15c. each; pork, 10c. each; catfish, 12c. to 15c. per bunch, and eels, 10c. per dozen. Soft shell crabs are still scarce, and are selling at 40c. per dozen. Hard crabs are plentiful, and sell at 75c. to $1 per barrel.

Passing In and Out. The steamer Dennis Simmons came up to this city yesterday from Alexandria to complete the unloading of her cargo of shingles and lumber. She will sail today for Edenton, N. C., and will load back to this port. The barge Pugh is at the wharf of John R. Zimmerman, at Alexandria, discharging a cargo of coal. The United States lighthouse steamer Holly has sailed for a cruise among the light stations along the lower Potomac river. The schooner M. A. Randall will complete the discharging of her cargo of ice tomorrow. It is understood she will go to Baltimore for a cargo of coal. The schooner Sionia Curley has completed the unloading of her cargo of lumber, and is anchored in the stream off the arsenal awaiting orders.

The steamer Occoquan arrived in port yesterday evening with a cargo of railway ties and having a raft of planks in tow. The railway ties were taken to Georgetown and unloaded and the planks were taken up the Eastern branch. The barge Spray is at Reardon's wharf, Alexandria, loading a cargo of wheat for the mills at Georgetown. The large steam launch recently built at Alexandria for Mr. Tony Smoot is ready for service. Steam was raised on her for the first time yesterday evening. The second dredge Fannie, belonging to Mr. John Miller, is at the wharf of Forberg & Murray, where she is to be supplied with new dredging machinery. The barge will be ready for service for several weeks.

The marine railway at Alexandria, which was badly damaged in hauling up a large screw, is being repaired. The schooner E. L. Bowen is on the railway, and will be launched, it is stated, as soon as the cradle of the railway is completed. The steamer Randall and Wakefield are bringing the first of the new wheat from the down-river landings to the dealers at Alexandria. This steam launch attached to the United States artillery station at Fort Washington, which has recently been thoroughly overhauled, has been taken to the port of Annapolis, Md., for a trial. The steam yacht Cygnus, belonging to Mr. Forsberg, was taken out for a trial of her new machinery yesterday evening. The trial was generally satisfactory.

The steamer Harry Randall has been withdrawn from the river route to run day excursions to the Chesapeake Beach. Her place on the river will be filled by the steamer Kent. The residents of the northern neck of Virginia have petitioned the War Department to establish an office in the store of J. H. Edwards, to be called Edwards' store. Captain Chap Posey is in command of the Norfolk and Washington line steamer Newmarket and Norfolk today. Mr. George Guest, pursur of the steamer Harry Randall, has been transferred to the In the same capacity for the summer to serve in the same capacity. Mr. Wash B. Williams has gone to Pine Point on the Potomac to spend the Fourth. Mr. William H. Hagen has been appointed an engineer in the Randall line and assigned to the steamer Arrowsmith as assistant engineer.

The first two shots penetrated the plate, but reports have not been received as to the remaining shots.

Mrs. Jerome Bonaparte sailed today for Europe to be absent probably till late in the fall.

Bishop Hurst and Miss Hurst also sailed for a European vacation. Margaret Barbour, the charming little daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. James F. Barbour, has been seriously ill for a fortnight with typhoid fever. The sickness developed while she was away for the past month or so, and she was brought home to the Rhode Island avenue residence of her family at the first sign of its seriousness. They and their friends are all glad to have her with them today. The family is all well.

Phelps. They will be joined later by others, and will remain at Point Lookout until about the 1st of September.

New Features in Naval Construction. Some new features in naval construction have been decided upon by the Navy Department for the new armored cruisers and battle ships now being planned. One of these is an increase of the ammunition hoists to twenty-five on broadside, so that the six-inch guns on broadside can be supplied with ammunition at the rate of six rounds a minute per gun, or seventy-two rounds per minute for the ship. This will be a marked advance on the best record possible to make under present conditions. Another departure will be the construction of the stockless anchor, by which labor and time can be saved. Aside from this, the construction of the new ships will be altered in construction and there will be no cutting away to receive the big anchors. Those on the new ships will be the largest in use, weighing 10,500 pounds each. Another new feature in construction will be a device for steering the ship from the flying bridge, an abandonment of steering from the chart house.
